Drivers of Growth in Foreign Direct Investment into the United States
Drivers of Growth in FDI into the United States

- Aggressive Obama Administration Policies - to make the United States a global magnet for innovators
  - SelectUSA
  - Visa/Immigration Reform
  - Private/Public Partnerships
    - Ex. National Network for Manufacturing Innovation (NNMI)
    - Ex. Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP)

- Skilled, Productive Work Force and Developed Manufacturing Base

- Legal and Financial Incentives for Investment

- Free Trade Agreements and Free Trade Zones

- Advanced Legal System and Developed Alternative Dispute Resolution
Legal Considerations Relating to FDI into the United States
Primary Legal Considerations in FDI Transactions

1. Review and Approval of the Inbound Investment
   - Industry Specific Restrictions on Foreign Ownership
   - National Security Review (CFIUS)
   - Antitrust Review

2. Ongoing Considerations
   - FCPA/Bribery
   - Labor
   - Intellectual Property
   - Consumer Protection
   - Taxation
   - US Securities Markets
Review and Approval of the Inbound Investment -

Industry specific restrictions on foreign ownership

Most industries have no limitations on, and welcome, FDI.
- Ex. clean energy, infrastructure development, retail, service and general manufacturing, etc.

Certain, limited, industries are subject to ceilings on foreign ownership.
- Ex. Defense, civil aviation, shipping, communications, energy/natural resources, banking, advanced electronics, and biotech.
Review and Approval of the Inbound Investment – National Security Review (CFIUS)

Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS)

2013 CFIUS Approvals
– BGI/Complete Genomics – first ever Chinese takeover of public American company
– Shuanghui/Smithfield Foods – largest ever Chinese takeover of American company

Recommendations
– Shape perceptions of the “character” of the foreign investor.
– Plan outreach early, build public support, and raise public profile.
– Conduct extensive regulatory and political due diligence.
– Consider foreign government ties (especially foreign government ownership or control), compliance record with respect to international non-proliferation regimes and other national security matters.

Takeaways
– Very few transactions have ever been blocked or modified on national security grounds.
– CFIUS gets a lot of media attention, but, in reality, risks are low (especially outside key industries).
– Risk is low and can be managed through proactive planning.
Review and Approval of the Inbound Investment - Antitrust Review

Antitrust Law in the United States

- Enforced by the Antitrust Division of the US Department of Justice and by the Federal Trade Commission.
- Agencies are authorized to challenge anticompetitive conduct and mergers, acquisitions and other business conduct.

Recommendations:

- Timing: Anti-trust review and approval can take significant time.
- Plan early: Understand antitrust implications and optimal transaction structure to anticipate future issues.
- Retain advisors with contacts and experience within the DoJ and FTC to facilitate the process and ensure efficient resolution.
The Law

- FCPA applies to any act by US businesses, foreign corporations trading securities in the United States, American nationals, citizens and residents and any person who has a degree of connection to the US.
- Covers any payment (monetary or otherwise) to, or attributable to, foreign officials, candidates and parties.

Recent Developments – Increased enforcement

Recommendations

- Conduct internal audit to assess potential violations and liability and prepare for anti-corruption due diligence.
- Implement a robust compliance program including reporting, record keeping and internal controls.
- Address FCPA issues early and proactively.
Ongoing Considerations - Labor Laws

Complex Framework of Overlapping Laws and Regulations
- Pure Labor Laws
- Compensation and Wage Laws - Minimum Wages, Restrictions on Executive Compensation
- Workplace Safety - Occupational Safety and Health Administration
- Labor Relations and Unions
- Equal Opportunity and Anti-Discrimination - gender, race, color, sex, religion, age or national origin

Recommendations
- Reputational Risk: Labor issues are very political in the United States, often garnering outsized media attention.
- Class Actions: Treat labor issues as if they have the potential for a class action lawsuit.
- Consider Cultural Differences and Management Styles.
- Ongoing Compliance: Training and systems in place to manage labor relations and compliance.
Ongoing Considerations - Intellectual Property – Patent, Copyright, Trademark

The United States has a robust and extensive system for the protection of IP.

Recent Developments – Increased, large stake litigation; patent trolls.

Recommendations:

– Assess acquirer’s current IP practices, including any potential infringement under US laws.
– Understand the role IP plays in the target business and the extent to which the target has protected such rights.
Ongoing Considerations - Taxation

US Tax Law

– The United States has a complex tax code, with regulations at the federal, state and local levels.
– Federal Corporate Income Tax - nominally a 35% tax rate, however a variety of exceptions, exemptions and credits substantially reduce the real tax paid.
– Federal Capital Gains Taxes - Recently increased from 15% to 20%.
– Currently, there are numerous proposals to simplify that tax code, but none has gained much traction, and any material change is, at minimum, years away.

Recent Developments

– Renewed focus on Bilateral Investment Treaties.

Recommendations

– Bring in tax professionals early in the process to structure the inbound transaction in the most tax efficient way.
– Utilize the variety of tax exceptions, exemptions and incentives available at the federal, state and local levels.
Ongoing Considerations -
Regulation of US Securities Markets

The United States securities laws are highly complex and regulate access to the public and private capital markets.

Recent Developments - Renewed focus after corporate governance scandals of early ‘00s (Enron, Worldcom) and recent financial crisis - led to SOX and Dodd Frank

Recommendations:

– Carefully consider:
  • type of deal (public v. private, etc.) and securities laws implications
  • type of financing will be required? Both to effectuate the transaction and to operate the business.
  • level of disclosure the acquiring company is comfortable with (reporting requirements may be triggered)
  • exit strategy at the outset - IPO? Financial/Strategic Sale?

– Importance of advisors with experience at the SEC
Ongoing Considerations -

Increased Shareholder Litigation Against US-Listed Chinese Companies

In 2011, there was a spate of shareholder lawsuits filed against US-listed Chinese companies that continues to this day.

Some of the lawsuits originated from short sellers publishing “analyst reports.” Others came from legitimate concerns surrounding reverse mergers.

Recommendations:

– Carefully consider:
  - ways of going public: through IPO or reverse merger
  - keeping shareholders informed when there is a drop in stock prices
  - importance of working with auditors long after going public
  - hiring a good team that knows US regulatory rules and Chinese standards
  - increased communication between Chinese and US regulatory bodies
Renewed focus on consumer protection in recent years.

Recent Developments.

- Growth in consumer litigation in recent years, particularly class action litigation over consumer products, foods and beverages (everything from shoes to tires to cellphones).
- Recent increase in government enforcement actions brought by federal government and state agencies/attorneys general.

Recommendations

- Have strict compliance programs in place to ensure compliance with U.S. manufacturing, safety, advertising, and labeling standards.
- Seek approval from legal department for all marketing and advertising materials (particularly those relating to health, nutritional, fitness benefits of the product).
- Retain experienced class action counsel.
Recommendations to Mitigate Political/Legal Risks
Recommendations to Mitigate Political/Legal Risks

1. Conduct a Comprehensive Risk Assessment early in the process.

2. Develop a Holistic Plan for Navigating Process
   - Carefully Select Advisors Who Will Work Together As A Team – Look for:
     - Expertise in a variety of areas and in similar transactions.
     - Active partners who will work efficiently and collectively towards end goal.
     - Government experience and contacts.
   - Plan Holistically
   - Begin Outreach Early - Public Relations and Politics are vital

3. Comprehensive Diligence of Acquirer and Target
   - Most problems can be resolved if discovered (and disclosed, if necessary) early in the process.

4. Implement a Rigorous Compliance Program
